CHIANG FOE LOSES PLEA

Military Trial Is Ordered for Imprisoned Publisher

Special to The New York Times.
TAIPEI, Taiwan, Sept. 15—

The High (Supreme) Court has ruled that Lei Chen, magazine publisher and political opponent of Generalissimo Chiang Kin-shek, should be tried by military court on sedition charges. The court rejected yesterday an appeal by Mr. Lei's wife that such a trial would be unconstitutional. Earlier, similar writ filed with the Taipei District Court was turned down. Mrs. Lei said that she "knew they were going to turn down my appeal. But I appealed to them because I still hoped that they would do something about it."
